In her powerful and moving memoir, Caught Between Two Lives, Sonja White chronicles her extraordinary journey of self-discovery and her struggles with identity, loss, and hope.

Born to a white mother and a black father, Sonja grew up in a world that was often hostile and unwelcoming. She faced racism and discrimination from both sides of her family, and she struggled to find her place in a society that seemed to be divided along racial lines.

As a young woman, Sonja made the difficult decision to leave her family and her home in search of a new life. She moved to a new city and started over, but she soon realized that she could not escape her past. The racism and discrimination that she had experienced as a child continued to haunt her, and she struggled to find acceptance and belonging.

Years later, Sonja's life took an unexpected turn when she was diagnosed with breast cancer. This life-changing event forced her to confront her mortality and to re-evaluate her life. She realized that she had spent too much time living in the shadows, afraid to be herself. She decided to embrace her true identity and to share her story with the world.

Caught Between Two Lives is a powerful and inspiring story of identity, loss, and hope. Sonja White's journey is a testament to the human spirit and the power of resilience. This book is a must-read for anyone who has ever felt lost or alone in the world.
