About the Book

New Democracies in Crisis examines the challenges facing new democracies in the 21st century. The book explores the factors that have contributed to the rise of authoritarianism and populism in these countries, and offers recommendations for how to strengthen democracy and promote human rights.

The book is divided into three parts. The first part provides a theoretical overview of the challenges facing new democracies. The second part examines the specific challenges facing new democracies in different regions of the world. The third part offers recommendations for how to strengthen democracy and promote human rights in new democracies.

Author

The book is written by Dr. Larry Diamond, a leading expert on democracy and human rights. Diamond is a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University and the author of several books on democracy, including The Spirit of Democracy and Democracy in Decline.

Reviews

"New Democracies in Crisis is a timely and important book. Diamond provides a clear-eyed analysis of the challenges facing new democracies and offers sound recommendations for how to strengthen democracy and promote human rights." -Francis Fukuyama, author of *The End of History and the Last Man

"Diamond's book is a must-read for anyone interested in the future of democracy. He provides a comprehensive analysis of the challenges facing new democracies and offers valuable insights into how to overcome these challenges." -Michael McFaul, former US Ambassador to Russia
